Obituary

Olivia Imogene Mowers, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mowers was born at Milford, Iowa, Mar. 19th, 1895. She came with her parents to Ods, Alberta, in 1907 where the family resided for three years, after which the family removed to Didsbury. About two years ago, Olivia began to suffer from the malady that finally resulted in her death. She bore her affliction bravely and was remarkably cheerful and sweet tempered in all her trials. Her death occurred, June 23. She had been a student in public school and was about to take her final examination when her last sickness began. The family mourn their loss, but rejoice in the assurance that Olivia is with Jesus. Funeral services were held in the Baptist church, Friday afternoon in the presence of a large concourse of friends who came to pay a tribute of respect to the departed. The "Glorious Song," Olivia's favorite was sung by her class mates.

Oh help us look beyond our loss, Oh give us strength to bear the cross, Help us stand at the heavenly throne, To see our Olivia filled with song, Give us Thy spirit, Holy One, And grace to say, Thy will be done.

Rev. Mr. Dyer officiated and Rev. Mr. Finkbeiner assisted.

Double Tragedy Follows The C. P. R. Train Robbery

Ashcroft, June 28. — Special Constable Iko Decker and an unidentified member of the trio who it is believed held up the transcontinental train No. 97 near Ducks one week ago tonight, are dead as the result of a brush which the former had with the robbers here today.

Early this morning a boat containing three men was seen coming down the Thompson river. It passed Penitentiary station, and word was telephoned to Ashcroft of its approach. Constable Deckers went to the river and waited its arrival. When the boat was in sight only two men were aboard and stepping from cover, Deckers ordered them to pull ashore. They did so, and as the boat touched ground one of the men sprang the bank, Deckers who was alone, covered him with a Winchester rifle and ordered him to throw up his hands. Instead of doing so, the man drew a revolver, at the same time pulling the trigger. When he saw that the man was drawing a gun, Deckers fired. Both shots sounded simultaneously, and the robber fell dead.

The second man, who was still in the boat, then opened fire and killed Deckers almost instantly. The murderer then left the boat and escaped in an easterly direction, with a hastily organized posse in close pursuit.

The man who is now fleeing for his life has little chance of getting away, as among the posse who are pursuing him are several trappers and noted sharpshooters, who have expressed a determination to open fire at the first opportunity. All the members of the posse are heavily armed, and they do not anticipate being able to take the murderer without a fight. Nothing has been heard of the third man who was in the boat when it passed station this morning.

Love, Tomatoes and Finance.

By ESTELLE CLAYTON.

Copyrighted, 1920, by Associated Literary Press.

The big man of the town of Strongsville was Jacob Strong. First, his grandfather had founded the town; second, he had been a justice of the peace for some years; third, he had received almost votes enough once to send him to the legislature, and, lastly, he was worth about $30,000.

Mr. Strong felt his likeness and exact respect accordingly. He did his best to make his son Horace and his daughter Maude feel their superiority over all other human beings in and around Strongsville. He succeeded admirably with the daughter, but the conduct of his son gave him no little anxiety.

One morning he said to the latter: "Horace, I am pained and humiliated to learn that for months past you have been paying attention to the daughter of Scribner, the carpenter. You have been riding with her, and you have frequently called at the house. What does it mean?"

"Miss Scribner is a nice young woman, sir," was the reply. "She is as well educated as our Maude and has as good manners."

"But, tut, tut! Make no such comparisons. If you forget who and what I am, you ought to be ashamed of yourself. Being the son of a man of position and wealth, with more wealth and social prestige coming, you must look higher, sir, far higher."

It was true that Miss Nettie Scribner was the daughter of a carpenter, but as the favorite of her Aunt Hilda Bascomb, a rich old spinster, the girl had been sent to a seminary and enjoyed exceptional opportunities. In all but wealth she was the peer of any girl in the county.

As a matter of fact the couple were engaged, but keeping it a secret, Horace had hoped that when the time came to announce the fact to his father it would be received at least in a reasonable way, but the conversation of the morning showed him the breakers ahead.

When Mr. Strong meant when he referred to more wealth and social prestige coming was the fact that he had organized the Strongsville Cannery company. The cannery building was already under way. It was a fertile farming country around the town, but with poor facilities for shipping fruits and vegetables, and he had conceived and entered on the idea of a tomato cannery.

He had investigated until he was certain that the profits would be large. He put in almost all the money and controlled things, and what few other stockholders there were did not belong to Strongsville.

As president of a tomato cannery Jacob Strong felt himself to be a tangible object. He was important and all there in his pomposity. He didn't propose to have any of his neighbors feel that as stockholders they need not have too much to say.

Of course the magnate's son informed the carpenter's daughter of the situation of affairs. The latter was determined to disobey his father at any cost; but, fortunately, Aunt Hilda arrived on her annual visit. She didn't exactly believe that the people were equal, but she bowed to none. If a carpenter and a blacksmith were honest and respectable men they were just as good in her eyes as magnates. The Scribners attempted to keep the secret from her, but she hadn't been in the house a day when she turned on her sister and said:

"Mary, there's something going on here, and I want to know all about it. I find Nettie looking queer, and sorrowful, and she hasn't eaten enough in three meals to keep a bird alive. No use trying to keep it from me. What's the matter?"

She was told, and when she had the particulars she set her jaw and nodded her head, which showed that she had made up her mind. Just what it was she didn't say that evening, nor did she tell it next morning when she put on her rusty old bonnet and sallied out. She said merely that she had a business matter to attend to.

Mr. Magnate Strong had a business office in the town, of course. Aunt Hilda made a straight course for it and plunged herself down in a chair in front of the great man to say: "Jacob Strong, my niece and your boy were attracted toward each other, and they have fallen in love and are engaged. I understand that you oppose the contemplated marriage."

"With all my soul, and if you are here to say anything in favor of it you may as well save your breath. I wonder that you had the impudence to appear at all."

"And what are your objections?" quietly asked Aunt Hilda as she got a strong hold of her tongue.

"You have no right to ask?" he shouted at her. "But I will tell you at least one objection. No son of mine can mate with the daughter of a common carpenter."

"Not Jacob Strong, how long did your father get a skinny living off a mighty poor thirty acres of ground in Michigan and what did he amount to as a man? How far back is it since you were running an old sawmill on Ten Mile creek in the same state? Mr. Scribner is a carpenter, but his pedigree is as good as yours."

"If you were a man I'd throw you out of the office," shouted Jacob Strong. "But being I'm a woman, I'll wait as fast as I can. I just called to see you know, Jacob, that I have arrived in town. Please come a little track of me for the next two weeks, will you?"

The aunt reached home smiling and chuckling. She laid a hand on Nettie's head and said soothingly:

"I talked up to old Strong today. It was right that I should. But I haven't spoiled anything. Give me two weeks and I'll have him here begging you to marry his son. You tell the young man to remain quiet and do nothing much. Hilda Bascomb is managing this affair, which will be one of finance from now on, and if she makes a failure it will be for the time. Now we get to go to bed, and you need a lawyer, and then I'll have some riding around the country to do. Oh, but you must explain your jump before I am through with him."

In planning for the cannery Mr. Strong had called upon most of the farmers in the district and informed them, possibly that thereafter he would buy their tomatoes at the market price. He had made no definite agreement with them, however, for he had determined to pay a mighty low price when the time came.

Miss Hilda Bascomb saw lawyers and had contracts drawn up. Lawyers to drive her, she covered most of the county the week after the interview with her magnate. Contracts were signed right and left, and something was added for secrecy among the signers.

Meanwhile the tomato cannery was hurried along, and the fixtures arrived to be put in place. In her walks about the town the spinster met Mr. Strong several times a day. Every time he scowled and she chuckled. There was anxiety at the Scribner's to learn what was afoot, but the only explanation they could get was:

"I am simply doing a little financing to help Cupid and the tomato market along. When it's time to escape the torpedo you'll hear the racket."

She had been in Strongsville almost a week when the racket was heard. The cannery was ready for business, and the farmers had been notified to begin delivery on a certain date. The date came, but there were no tomatoes.

A messenger was dispatched with a horse and buggy. He had been back about half an hour when Miss Bascomb entered Mr. Strong's office for the second time and plumped herself down in the same chair. "What was at the telephone. He was using vigorous language and dancing around."

"Come, let's have the tomato market," asked the caller as he gazed at her and rung off.

"It is you-you who have done this thing," he exclaimed, "to revenge your self? You? You?"

"Yes, I have cornered every tomato in the county. It wasn't for revenge, but to give Cupid a chance. How much will you take for your factory, cash down? It hasn't any pedigree to speak of, but I think Mr. Scribner, the carpenter, can use it."

"I won't sell to you! Your tomatoes can rot on your hands!"

"Oh, no, they won't," Jacob chuckled. "I can sell them at a very nice profit. But your factory can stand idle while I build one of my own! Better talk business, Jacob Strong. That son of yours is a nice young man, and I think a heap of my niece. It's a love match, and it would be a pity to see it go to the wall."

"I can turn these tomato contracts over to you and let your factory begin work? There's money in the cannery business, and I don't want to kill an industry."

Mr. Strong fought for an hour and then gave in and shook hands. By the time the contracts were assigned to him he was snoring. By the time the woman in the rusty old bonnet was ready to go he was ready to remark ironically:

"Just so, Miss Bascomb; just so. Mr. and Mrs. Scribner are most worthy people, and if Horace is in love with their daughter I have no objections to a marriage. He is old enough to judge for himself, and it is not for me to interfere. Good day, ma'am, good day, and thank you ever so much for calling."

ANXIOUS MOMENTS FOR YOUNG MOTHERS

The hot weather months are an anxious time for all mothers, but particularly for young mothers. They are the most fatal time of the year for babies and young children, because of the great prevalence of cholera and infant troubles. These come almost without warning and often before the mother realizes that there is anything wrong. The child is beyond all. No other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in promoting curing cholera and stomach troubles and an occasional dose given the while child will keep the stomach and bowels free from offending matter and ensure good health to the child. Therefore the Tablets should always be kept handy for use in case of need. The little ones may be given the means of saving a little life. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Unpoised Lives.
The life of the criminal is simply an unpoised life. If a person were perfectly poised wrongdoing would be so repugnant that it would be unthinkable.

It is the one-sided, the unpoised mind that goes wrong. It is just as normal for the balanced mind to choose the right, the good, as for the magnet to draw to itself whatever is kindred.

Just as the needle in the mariner's compass always points to the North star, no matter how thick the fog or how the tempest rages, there is a needle within every human being which always points to the North star of rectitude, of right, of truth, no matter what storms of discord, of weakness or of crime may be raging in the individual mind. Nothing can prevent this little indicator from pointing to the right, no matter how far the individual may drift from it, how low he may sink in vicious living.—Success Magazine.

Re-organized Board of Trade

On Friday evening last a meeting was held in the Opera House for the purpose of re-organizing the Board of Trade.

The attendance was small about 15 being present. Mayor Corbitt took the chair and after mentioning the purpose of the meeting, called for a secretary for the evening.

It was resolved that the fee be $1.00 per annum, payable in advance.

The electing of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, the following being elected:—President, W. H. Smith; Vice-President, D. C. Corbitt; Secretary, J. E. Stauffer, M.P.P.; Treasurer, F. N. Ballard.

W. H. H. Smith then took the chair, and said that eight members formed the executive, with power to add to their numbers. He also mentioned some of the work done by the old Board of Trade. He said that they arranged that Didsbury should have an exhibit at the Dominion Fair at Calgary last year, and that in his opinion the town got some valuable advertising through it. He also said that they were instrumental in obtaining cars last fall so that the products of the district could be shipped out. But, he continued we must have the support of the business men of the town.

Mr. Davis enquired if the Board of Trade could do anything in respect to Rosebud hill. He said that men had been taking gravel out of the bank, and at night the shadow caused by the moon shining frightened horses, and was a danger to people using the road.

Mr. Sexsmith thought that the Board of Trade should take the matter up with the Eastern Township.

The question was then raised why Didsbury did not get mentioned in the Calgary papers, while other towns had large spaces allotted to them. The President explained that he was unable to obtain the correct return from the station agent and as soon as they were obtained the representative of the Calgary paper would give them a write up.

After much discussion on the subject it was moved that the secretary be paid $75 per annum, he to send reports of happenings in the town to the Calgary papers. The motion was not seconded.

Mr. Patterson was present and spoke a few words and said that the Board of Trade was welcome to his office as a meeting place.

After much more discussion on the correspondent question the meeting adjourned.

Provincial Exhibition

Calgary—A plan has been hit whereby it has been made possible for every district in Alberta to receive the very best kind of advertising throughout the world, as a result of the Alberta Provincial Exhibition in Calgary, between July 5th and 10th. Arrangements have been made to have films taken for moving pictures of the great historical pageant to be held on the morning of July 5th, the opening day of the fair. These moving pictures will be exhibited first at Seattle during the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition and afterwards used in connection with a lecturing tour through all the principal countries of the world. Every section of Alberta represented in the monster parade, will by means of these moving pictures, introduce itself to millions of people on the five continents. The opportunity is offered, and it now rests with the people of the Province to decide whether or not they appreciate the enormous advantages which are bound to result if they identify themselves with the publicity movement. There is sufficient time remaining before the exhibition opens, for every district in Alberta to be represented in the historical pageant, which will be a portrayal of the development of the province from the days when the Indians reigned supreme down to the present industrial epoch. Any town, community or district, in the west wishing suggestions as to the most appropriate way to proceed in order to receive the greatest possible measure of publicity in the pageant pictures, would do well to instruct some one appointed for the purpose, to write H. B. Wilson, Secretary of the pageant Committee, Calgary.

Between 200 and 250 art treasures valued at from $100,000 to $125,000 will be included in the art loan exhibit at the Alberta Provincial Exhibition, Calgary, July 5th to 10th. Mr. E. O'Brien of Montreal, who was successful in securing the greater part of this valuable collection from private art galleries of London, Paris and Canadian Cities, has notified Manager Richardson of the Exhibition Co., that the pictures were shipped from Montreal on June 12th. The addition to the pavilion on the Exhibition grounds which is being built for the accommodation of the art loan collection will be fitted up artificially, and will form a very appropriate five days home for the pictures of the most celebrated artists the world has known. It has developed since the decision of the management, to hold the art exhibition in connection with the fair, was made, that a large number of the citizens of Calgary own old paintings of very great value. Many of these have been generously offered for exhibition in Calgary from July 5th to 10th. Among those which will be sent from different places throughout the province, are the following:

"Eather before Anasuerus"; Ferdinand Bell; "Monastery Service"; Moolman; "Prisoners of war"; Wheatley; "Cattle scene"; Hinglebraith; "Portrait of Roy"; Muller; "Village scene"; Muller; "Market Scene"; Terniers. A private collection valued at $25,000, will also be loaned for the exhibition, by a Calgary citizen. It is safe to predict that there will be in Calgary between July 5th and 10th, a better collection of paintings than has ever been on exhibition west of Toronto.

A special excursion train will leave Red Deer for the Alberta Provincial Exhibition at 6.30 a. m. on July 5th, 6th and 8th. The train will arrive in Calgary at 10.20 a. m. leave for the north again at 11.30 p. m. reaching Red Deer at 8.15 a. m.

The special excursion on the 5th will give anyone an excellent opportunity to be in Calgary in time to see the great historical pageant on Monday morning. No one should miss this wonderful feature of Alberta's big fair. The following is the schedule upon which the special trains will be run on the 5th, 7th and 8th.

Oklahoma Nigger Lynced

Talking to the Point

Our Champion When All get right down to the point of it, if you want something say up in a few well chosen words. The intelligent reader knows that kind of talk and that is one reason why condensed World facts are so productive of the best kind of results. Try your buying or selling with this well-chosen plan.

Who Owns The Air

It is still a moot point whether or not the flying of airships over private property may be opposed by due process of law.

In England there is an ancient maxim embodied in the English common law which says, "He who owns the land owns it up to sky." This venerable rule, a legal authority points out, is as good to-day as ever it was and is full of menacing significance to the airship builder.

The effect of this rule is to give the owner of the land the exclusive right to the free enjoyment of the air over and above the four corners of his holding and any interference with that enjoyment, however slight and harmless constitutes a trespass, for which an action may be brought.

Applications for injunctions against airship owners and actions for trespass by aggrieved land owners are not unlikely proceedings in the near future.

Mark Twain's advice to college girls has good sense as well as humor in it: "Do not marry to excess."

Regarding Sunny Alberta

Nil Desperandum writing in the Ponoka Herald makes the following pertinent comment, which contains a good deal of truth:

"I can just imagine the future of Alberta, and the relative position we will be bound to take in this most favored and best situated province in the vast and glorious west if we would but get busy and construct railways to the most likely settlements. Here we see sturdy settlers plodding along in similar ways as our forefathers did years ago. Struggling to build up a country for future generations, by the ungainly way of ox driving and swimming mud-holes.

Now where do our often boasted enterprising railway officials come in? Why they arrive on the spot when skinning time comes—after men have laid down their better days and their hard earned cash; brought up more people to keep the land in shape. They sneak in with their parallel metal and say it is they who make a prosperous and glorious country. Another phase of their making the country is as follows: The farmer goes out, lives any old way, and works the land under most discouraging conditions. He makes roads, builds bridges, schools, churches, etc., and by so doing raises the price of railroad land. It is thus easily seen who makes the country. For instance I know a section that could be bought a few years ago for $3 per acre including improvements, and the railroad company claims twelve, and that for the raw prairie.

For all these privileges they ought to risk their capital and let railroad building keep pace with settlement. If they have faith in this country why do they withhold their capital and energy until the busy bees of this great union hive pave the way for them with milk and honey?

So here's to the sturdy and industrious farmers wherever they who wear crowns or no crowns, depend upon the farmers for their bodies good. And yet doth the farmer feed them all.

Provincial Happenings

Dr. Henry George, of Red Deer, has offered to dispose of his private museum to the city of Calgary for exhibition in the library building. This offer and his application for position of librarian were referred to the library board for a full report.

A week or two ago a rather interesting freak might have been witnessed at the home of James C. Brown, Little Red Deer. It was the novel sight of a cat nursing a stray young pigeon along with her own kittens. When the little unfledged stranger arrived on the scene one day unaccountably, instead of being pounced upon by the old cat, she received him kindly and continued to afford him the share of her protection along with her kittens. We regret to add, however, the curiosity no longer exists, as the pigeon has met with his death, although, be it recorded, the misadventure was in no way due to his nurse.

Brie Carr, a nine-year-old lad living four miles south of Innisfail, was brought to the Memorial Hospital this week in a very serious condition. He was standing near a hay press when the chains broke and part of the machine struck him on the forehead, smashing in the skull. An operation was performed here to raise the bone, but the little lad's recovery is very doubtful.

A notable and important event took place at Cochrane on Friday last in the institution of King Solomon Lodge, No. 41, A. F. and A. M., and the installation of officers thereof.

At the Innisfail police court on Wednesday Rev. Father Tierney, or the Roman Catholic church, was fined $2 and costs, amounting in all to over $6 for assaulting Oliver St. Denys. It appeared that the boy was one of the altar boys of the church and that for some time he had been absenting himself from the services. On Saturday Father Tierney met the boy and ex-patulated with him and was met with insolent remarks. The boy then ran away, with the Father in chase. Oliver fell down and was picked up by the priest and marched to the police station, being handled rather roughly, he alleged, on the way. His mother laid a charge of assault against the Rev. gentleman, with the above result.

Two religious sects who hated one another bitterly were found by Sven Hedra in Thibet. Searching for the cause of this aversion, he found that one of the sects believed that the prayer wheel should turn to the right, while the other was convinced that the wheel should turn to the left. In the region of the Himalayas he found a mountain which is so sacred that whoever walks around it 13 times has all his sins forgiven. The result of this belief is that criminals from far and near infant this region. When Sven Hedra started to ride around this mountain on his horse the pilgrims informed him that that would do him no good. Farmers Advocate.

Another "Sunshine" Feature

This is an entirely new idea, and will especially interest people who reside in natural gas districts. The gas ring takes the place of the lower Sunshine fire-pot, thus making it possible to burn gas in your furnace without inconvenience. Such is not possible in a furnace where the ordinary gas log is inserted; for, should the gas give out, a coal or wood fire could not be started until the gas pipes were disconnected.

To provide against sweating in the summer time, Sunshine Furnace is equipped with a nickel-plated steel radiator and dome. All bolts and rivets are nickel-plated, all rods copper-plated. This special treatment, besides meaning quicker and greater radiation from the radiator and dome than cold chills iron could possibly give, acts as protection for the bolts, rivets and rods from iron-oxides of gas. When cast iron comes in contact with our nickel-plated steel it is coated with our special Anti-Rust treatment, which prevents the slightest possibility of rust commencing anywhere in Sunshine Furnace.
